Messrs, martridge and Officilly went with Mrs. Evelyn Thaw to the Tombs, and there in the hospital ward they met the prisoner. This ward had been placed at their disposal because of the crowd in the usual consultation-room. The brothers of the defendant did not go to the Tombs, but hurried uptown with the news of the commission to their mother and sisters, who were waiting in their apartments. Thaw had divined the result of the conference with Justice Fitzgeraid, and was not in the least surprised.

"It is all right, dearie," he said to his wife. "I am not afraid of a commission. I am a sane man now; just as sane as the judge himself, and I am sure that any fair-minded commission will so de-

The offense was committed a week ago. The names of the luckless students are withheld by the faculty. With their hands burled in their trousers' pockets, the collegians sauntered before the footlights without a trace of stage fright. One of them announced that "the great Thaw trial" would be reproduced unexpurgated. "Evelyn Nesbit Thaw" was first presented. "William Travers Jerome—notice that the gentleman is wide-awake and has no cigarette stains on his fingers"—was the introduction accorded the next student. The pseudo district attorncy kicked a soaphox in the direction of "Mrs. Thaw." "Sit down, Evelyn," he said in soft tones and with a Chesterfieldian gesture. "District Attorncy Jerome" wasted no time in preliminaries. "Mrs. Thaw" simpered and sulked alternately.

Young Man Held for Kidnapping Clarence Jarrett Is Acquitted.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DANVILLE, VA., March 26.—James
Childress was acquitted in the Mayor's
Court this morning of the charge of Childress was acquitted in the Mayor's Court this morning of the charge of kidnapping Clarence Jarrett, aged nine years, and son of P. H. Jarrett, of this city. Several witnesses introduced testified that they had seen Childress and the boy together several times during his mysterious absence, about a week, from home, and that young Jarrett had ample opportunity to leave his alleged abductor if he wanted to. Childress said that Clarence played truant from school and went fishing with him. When night came the boy, he declared, was afraid to go home because he thought that his father would whip him for running away. Childress did not deny that Clarence remained with him, but he did so because he wanted to.

Despite evidence to the contrary, the boy on the witness stand related a weird story of being kidnapped and held a prisoner in a boyel by Childress, whom he charged with threatening to shoot him. During four days of his alleged captivity, Clarence said he had been given but two meals, and these consisted of stale cakes. A look at the prisoner and his alleged victim would lead one to believe that if either of them was half-starved it was the former.

New Secretary of Interior Department Declares This to Be His Policy.

MAY AFFECT VIRGINIANS

Complete List of Those from This State Holding Positions in the Department.

BY WALTER EDWARD HARRIS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—Sec-retary Garfield, the new head of the Interior Department, confirms the report that there is to be a general shake-up of the department. He intends demonor the department. He intends demon-strating that he is something more than "onto his job," and, therefore, he will make a close scrutiny of the organization as it has been under his predecessors and is to-day.

and is to-day.

The recently retired Secretary Hitch-cock made no material changes in the personnel during the eight years he held the portfolio of the Interior Department. He was a very conservative official, and took no eventful steps unless circumstances fully justified them. That he was willing to take such steps when condiwilling to take such steps when conditions demanded is evidenced by his course in demanding the resignation of Binger in demanding the resignation of Binger Hermann, of Oregon, now on trial in this city for malfeasahee in office.

It is probable a good many Virginians will be affected by the shake-up when it comes, as there are many in the department. Secretary Garfield is not divulging his plans very freely, but he has let enough be known to but he has let enough be known to cause the entire clerical force of his department considerable uneasiness. Already it is known that certain divisions are to be abolished and others consolidated and even chiefs of diviconsolidated, and even chiefs of divi-sions are asking themselves where they are "at," or rather where they will be "at," when the new "Big Noise" gets through executing his present

Nevertheless, there is some consolation in the statement made by Sec-retary Garfield that all well-behaved and competent people in the employ of the department will be taken care of in the process of transmogrification.
